What is the Service

Managing a successful state and local tax program is important to businesses seeking to minimize their tax burden. State and local taxes can account for as much as 50% or more of a business' tax liability. State laws, regulations and rules that govern sales and use tax vary greatly nationwide and are continually changing and subject to interpretation.

Establishing proper billing, collection, records maintenance and compliance policies can be time consuming and costly. Many businesses do not have the resources to manage the complexity of the ever-changing sales and use tax system. As a result businesses are often paying excessive sales and use taxes or are subject to exposure for interest and penalties that could be avoided.
